

WoW Honor Bot - How a World of Warcraft Honor Bot Works

When you play World of Warcraft, things can get pretty competitive sometimes and you'll find yourself wanting a bit of a leg up when it comes to getting more gold or leveling faster and always having the best gear. One of the things that can help you get some advantage in your game playing is using a WoW honor bot.

If you spend a lot of time grinding out honor in PvP, you are probably looking for some ways to stop doing the grind while still getting the honor and that's exactly what a WoW honor bot is designed to help you do. You'll be able to bot your way to lots of honor that you can then use just like it is gold.

Using a bot means that you can gain honor even when you are not sitting at your computer playing online. Your honor bot will do the work for you while you are at work all day or attending classes or at the movies. You just have to set it up to do the tasks that you want it to do and it will take care of mouse clicks and keyboard strokes.

Now unless you are a programmer yourself, you're going to want to get your hands on a bot script that has been designed to do the work for you. Probably the most well known one is MMO Glider. The cool thing about MMO Glider is it isn't just an honor bot. It can automate all kinds of boring tasks for you so you can get back to enjoying playing World of Warcraft on your own terms. What Glider can do besides grinding out honor is stuff like looting, skinning and even farming soul shards. It also does healing. You basically just need to tell it what you want it to do and then while you are out having a few beers, it's grinding away happily.

Just remember that if you decide to use an honor bot or bot of any kind, it does come with the risk of having your account banned if you are not careful (and sometimes even if you are!). You could potentially use the Honor bot for a long time without any worries and then one day Blizzard will decide to ban them all and all of a sudden you won't be able to access your account anymore.

So in order to avoid the pain of having a character that you've spend a lot of time and loving care leveling and making rich, you'll want to do your botting with a brand new character on a brand new WoW account. Usually this is the best way to do it anyway. If you decide you want to play a character class that you've never played before , but the idea of grinding up through the early levels sounds like the biggest bore on earth, Glider will help relieve some of the tedium. It's not like it can play the whole game for you though, and why would you even want it to? It just helps get through some of the really boring stuff.
