

Cedar Hot Tubs the Natural Choice

The original hot tubs date back to the roman times when the most common uses for hot tubs were for therapeutic reasons. The originals were only made of wood. That is where they get their name hot tubs. The term spa came around in the 1970 when fiberglass or plastic tubs were beginning to become popular. They were called spas to differentiate between the two. Today either term is used to describe both models.

There is a very specific process in creating these products. Cooperage that has been used for thousands of years in barrel making allows the wood to hold liquids. Many uses for the barrel long ago were for wines and spirits. Cedar was used because it was naturally resistant to decay and how well it expanded when it was soaked.

Wooden hot tubs have made a come back over the years as buyers realize that nothing can compare to a true hot tub. Cedar is one of the common woods used for making these tubs. Cedar is not only a durable wood but it also has a unique smell that helps with relaxation. These tubs are often used for those who want to the use of a hot tub but want to keep the natural look to their home. These tubs fit right in to the natural surroundings of the outside world. The wood is also more durable when it comes to being put through all kinds of weather.

A traditional wooden hot tub is going to give you better quality for the money that is spent on a hot tub. The buyer will want something that will last for many years to come that is why a cedar hot tub should be considered. The lasting qualities of one of these tubs are going to be a lot longer than that of a plastic or fiberglass hot tub. All of the same benefits that a plastic or fiberglass tub has to offer a wooden tub can offer you as well, but it will have a more durable and lasting design.

Cedar hot tubs are made to give the users the most enjoyable experience. Cedar has some of the best insulating properties that is found in common woods. The first hot tubs had only the ability to use hot water, but as the market has grown you can find that these tubs have some of the same amenities of the plastic tubs. They are available with air jets and sitting to fit others as well though the original style of tubs is also still available for those who do not want all the extras. Cedar hot tubs are made so well that you will not really need all the extras to enjoy the comforts of a hot tub experience. These tubs can come with the very latest technology used with hot tubs today. The water can either be heated with electricity or gas. Many of these tubs can be customized to fit the needs and amenities that you might want.
