

Selecting Your Elegant Bridal Lingerie

You've found the perfect dress, the right bridal jewelry, and your bridal garter – so what's left? The absolutely most important piece of apparel you may ever own – that's what! So how do you go about finding your perfect bridal lingerie? Bridal lingerie is often more costly than ordinary lingerie, often around $50, so you will want to be sure to select lingerie that not only complements your body but will feel comfortable walking around in.

Often bridal lingerie for your big day is still white but today's modern brides also experiment with many other colors. Long gowns are still popular, but have been replaced by sheer gowns and chemises. Bridal lingerie takes many forms including the lingerie version of the bridal gown being the most innovative. A bride obviously wants to wear her own wedding gown for as long as is possible on the wedding day, for it is the only day that she would ever wear such a dress again; it is the only day that would ever be solely about her again.

So what bridal lingerie should you select for your honeymoon night? Remember that bridal lingerie can be the invisible helping hand that could help lift and tone where you need it most. The right bridal lingerie can help shape your contours exactly the way you want them.

A favorite amount many brides is the corset. Corsets can enhance your waist and bust. The corset laces up the back and has a hidden hook and eye side closure. Corsets often include adjustable and detachable leg garters. The corsets may begin either above or just below the bust and extends down to the waist or below the hips and this choice in lingerie helps with the illusion of large breasts and a small waistline. A very sexy bridal lingerie choice indeed.

Bustiers are another favorite of brides and appear like strapless bras that are attached to a fabric that wraps around your body. Bustiers are designed to show off cleavage beautifully and slim the waist to a perfect hourglass.

Sheer baby dolls, chemises, and gowns are especially loved by the bride to be since this lingerie will the tone for the wedding night. Sheer baby dolls and night gowns send one message, while a black lace corset with a garter belt and stocking gives your husband a totally different message! Plus size women also look fantastic in baby dolls and sheer gowns. Ooh La La!

If you will be on your honeymoon for several days, consider taking several different bridal lingerie selections with you. Also, consider your husbands tastes and choose a special piece of lingerie just for him. Wearing different styles keeps your romance interesting and what better way to start off your lingerie collection than with your honeymoon lingerie.

Remember wearing erotic, sexy lingerie can turn a normal evening into a memorable and exciting night. Wearing a special piece of bridal lingerie on your wedding night will make your night just a little more special, wink, wink. You go girl!

About the Author

Denise Sanger is the owner of <http://www.BuyWeddingFavorsOnline.com> which has a diverse catalog of wedding accessories and bridal lingerie for your special honeymoon.

Source: www.isnare.com

Source: <http://articles.exospy.com>