

8 Minute Dating Secrets

8 minute dating is beneficial to singles who don't have time to look for possible dating candidates and to actually schedule a date. Being able to know 8 different people in one night, and actually talk to them is time saving and effective. Once you are all set to sign up with an 8 minute dating company, you have to make sure that you are really going to do it once and get the most out of that one chance. Here are 8 minute dating secrets unveiled to help you out on your once in a blue moon dating experience.

Don't fool yourself by saying that looks matter. Remember that you only have 8 minutes to make an impression. The first thing in our list of 8 minute dating secrets is to prepare for the big day! Remember that you are going to meet 8 different people at the same time who might be interested in you. You don't need to put too much effort. Just look presentable. The company will tell you the attire for the event and you just need to follow suit. Let your fashion sense and charm become the facade to the true person that you are.

With good looks comes the right level of confidence. Remember that you are prepared to make a good impression. 8 minute dating secrets would not do its work unless you are comfortable with yourself. These are merely tips, what matters is how you handle the date with poise. Carry yourself well and notice how you are able to carry your short conversation to that next date.

Like I said, 8 minute dating secrets are merely guidelines you can use to make a good impression. It is all about you and what impression you exude. These 8 minute dating secrets will not tell you to be who you are because that will defeat the purpose of dating. You date because you want to meet people and you want people to get to like you. But if you are not going to be yourself, then what is there to like about? It does not mean however that if you are a lazy slouch, then you will exude the aura of a lazy slouch. Surely, there is something about you that are likeable and interesting. Make sure that you give out that aura of mystery and appeal to keep your dates longing for more.

Nonetheless, a date is never all about you. You only have 8 minutes to talk about each other so you have to let your date talk about himself/herself as well. Listen intently. Make eye contact and flash that magnetic smile. Try to laugh with his/her jokes even if you already heard it. Engage yourself when he/she tries to narrate something. He/She can never be interesting unless you listen to what he/she is about to say. Remember that these 8 minute dating secrets will not tell you what the other person on the table is like and you would not want to date someone who is forever a stranger to you.

Always remember though that this is not an interview. Engage yourself in a conversation that matters. Talk about your interests, hobbies, activities and find out that you two have something in common. And when your 8 minutes are up, you will be surprised how you found the conversation too short for both of you that will eventually want you to see each other for a longer date.

About the Author

Finally ready to learn how to get the girl of your dreams? Learn the proven ways to attracting and keeping the girl you want using 8 minute dating secrets. Visit <http://www.OnlineAttractionSecrets.com> to receive Kelly's FREE quick start guide to attracting girls.

Source: www.isnare.com

Source: <http://articles.exospy.com>