Though there are some accessories that are not mandatory, having it anyway can make a big difference to the overall appeal of your wedding.

Here are some wedding accessories that are considered to be not really mandatory, yet adored by most couple.

Unity Candles

What is a Unity Candle? It is commonly used during a Christian wedding that symbolizes the merging of two personalities into one, formed by the holy matrimony. The lighting of the unity candle is an addition to the traditional wedding. Actually, the unity candle is a set of three candles. During the ceremony, two taper candles with a large pillar – called the unity candle is placed in the center. Though it can be an option to have or not to have this accessory, and it doesn't have anything to do with the religious component. If the bride and groom opt for unity candle ceremony, it is commonly performed after the couple's exchanging of vows, but before the official marriage pronouncement.

There are different varieties of designs for unity candles. They also have different themes that can be matched with different weddings. You may also find personalized unity candles, a good keepsake option for the couple.

Wedding Cake Topper

In a traditional wedding, a wedding cake needs to be present to further enjoy the celebration at the reception. Wedding cake toppers are one of the most popular wedding cake decorations and accessories. Like the unity candle, to use a cake topper is not mandatory. However, this can be a great highlight to be seen on your cake. Most couples opt for personalized cake toppers to show both of their personalities. Common cake toppers feature the couple in their formal wedding outfit. However, different kinds of designs, themes and style are available today in most specialty stores.

These are just few great wedding accessory options. There are still lots of wonderful wedding essentials ideas you may choose to decorate your grand celebration such as wedding party favors.
